Ecuadorian Oils Equal Optimal Health Care

How Re-Discovered Essential Oils from the Ecuadorian Amazon can Improve Health, Increase Energy and Enhance Emotional Wellness.

Essential oils—the fragrant portions of plants and herbs—have been utilized in traditional civilizations throughout the world for thousands of years. In the modern era, the traditional use of essential oils continues, as science has furthered our understanding of how essential oils can fight disease and optimize overall health and wellness. Consequently, numerous “classic” essential oils—such as lemon, eucalyptus, clove, and so forth—are now recognized and widely used by herbalists everywhere.

Even better news is that new essential oils are being discovered in exotic locales, and their health-promoting properties are as promising—or even more so—than some of the widely known classic oils. An excellent example of this is a group of several oils that are found in the Amazonia territories of Ecuador, a region that possesses the perfect conditions for its exquisite array of species to develop and flourish.

Young Living Provides Superior Ecuadorian Oils

YL's Finca Botanica Aromatica

Gary Young chose Guayaquil, Ecuador, as the location for Young Living's newest farm, Finca Botanica Aromatica. With nearly 2,000 acres, the farm's fertile ground and year-round growing season supports an abundance of Palo Santo trees and several new high-oil-content plants. This farm is also proving to be the perfect place to harvest oils that are in short supply throughout the world.

“Young Living's Ecuadorian Oils can promote optimal physical, mental and emotional health.”
