

Fixed constants in your business that you cannot change.

1. The company
2. The product
3. Your upline
4. The compensation plan

The difference between those who succeed in your company and those who don't is
... You!

Success is not found in convenience. Nothing worthwhile is ever easy. You will need to pay a price. You will either pay the price of hard work that begets success ... or you will refuse to make the sacrifice and pay the price of failure. Either way, a price will be paid. It is best to pay the price up front temporarily, for a lifetime of happiness.

If you ever want to have time freedom, then you simply cannot afford to procrastinate. If not now ... when? If not this, what?

~ Brian Carruthers

When you are inspired by some great purpose, some extraordinary project, all your thoughts break their bonds: Your mind transcends limitations, your consciousness expands in every direction, and you find yourself in a new, great and wonderful world. Dormant forces, faculties and talents become alive, and you discover yourself to be a greater person by far than you ever dreamed yourself to be.

When a gifted team dedicates itself to unselfish trust and combines instinct with boldness and effort, it is ready to climb.

~ Patanjali

Never back down from a good challenge. Look a challenge in the eye and honor it for being a worthy opponent. Then draw upon your own inner peaceful warrior and remember the words of Krishna: It is the dharma of a warrior to fight for a righteous cause. Then give it your best shot. This is living as a true human being.

Krishna did not mean to fight for a self-righteous cause, which is what the ego continually does. Self-righteousness is when we think our own standards and ideals should also apply to others. Then we fight to force or coerce others to think and feel and behave according to our ideas of what is best.
